Niagara Falls, Ontario, Canada, is the beginning point of a long, sometimes painful and unaware journey towards the parents' country, Italy. The collection of verse, prose and short-short stories wants to speak to the heart of any reader by plucking those chords that the reader has perhaps long left dormant, untouched. It's a journey into the darkness of a soul and mind profoundly moved, and perhaps warped, by events and propelled by a crooked personality that like a weed has been blown into many directions, till one day, the weed grows flamboyantly out of control. Having a life of their own, sonnets, free verse, haikus, haibuns, morbid limericks, Greek odes and elegies, viators, prose and purely invented verse patterns come together to form a universe of meaning, sometimes pleasant, sometimes disquieting. The compositions are exactly 70, a non random reminder of the biblical "70x7" in Matthew 18:21-22.
